4. Reasons for requiring postponement

On April 3, 2015, the Company established a Special Investigation Committee and conducted an investigation into the appropriateness of the percentage-of-completion method of accounting used in projects undertaken by the Company. In the course of the investigation, the Company identified certain projects where the total amount of contract cost was underestimated and contract losses (including provisions for contract losses) were not recorded in a timely manner in certain projects where the percentage-of-completion method of accounting was used. The Company also identified some issues requiring further investigation other than those involving the percentage-of-completion method of accounting, and decided on May 8, 2015 to change the framework of the investigation to that of one to be conducted by an Independent Investigation Committee composed solely of fair and impartial outside experts. The members of this committee were appointed on May 15, 2015.

The Company delegated the Independent Investigation Committee to investigate;

- 1) Accounting in relation to the percentage-of-completion method;
- 2) Accounting in relation to recording of operating expenses in the Visual Products Business;
- 3) Accounting in relation to the valuation of inventory in the Semiconductor Business, mainly discrete and system LSIs; and
- 4) Accounting in relation to component transactions in the PC Business, and to identify causes and make recommendations on preventive measures to the Company. Given that the investigation will be wide ranging, the Company has received notice from the Independent Investigation Committee indicating that it expects to submit its report of the investigation in mid-July. Considering the amount of work required after receiving the report from the Independent Investigation Committee, in order to revise the consolidated financial statements and financial statements (non-consolidated) and documents for the past years and to compile the 176th Annual Security Report, and also considering the further processes and activities in connection with audit by the independent auditor, the Company has determined, after also taking into account the opinions of outside experts and the independent auditor, that the submission of the 176th Annual Security Report can be expected to be made in August. Also, as submission of the 177th First Quarterly Securities Report is premised on the contents of the 176th Annual Security Report, the compiling of the 177th First Quarterly Securities Report and its review by the independent auditor will be delayed.

As a result, the Company decided to submit applications seeking approval of postponement of the submission deadlines for the 176th Annual Securities Report and 177th First Quarterly Securities Report.
