Toshiba Memory Corporation Restores Partial Access to Database to Western Digital

TOKYO—Toshiba Memory Corporation (“TMC”), a subsidiary of Toshiba Corporation (TOKYO: 6502) has resumed allowing Western Digital Corporation (“Western Digital”) to access information existing prior to June 28, 2017 on certain Toshiba databases and networks. This decision does not require Toshiba to provide access to Toshiba’s or TMC’s proprietary information. Toshiba and TMC are also not obligated to provide access to information created after June 28, 2017.

This resumption is based on a decision by the California Court of Appeal in San Francisco. This decision does not dismiss Toshiba’s underlying appeal, but covers the resumption of Western Digital access to certain information while that appeal is being decided.
